

summer of love
week 8

During the school year we are busy asking things like Did you pack your lunch? Where are your boots? What homework do you have tonight? that we don't have much time for personal questions. Questions that give us a glimpse of the child within. Summer, with its different rhythms, is a great time for deep, quirky, off-the-beaten-path questions. So here they are, a question a day. Ask them. Record them. Then let the moment hold in silence, and see where the conversation takes you.

Monday - What does summer taste like?

Tuesday - What is your favorite word?

Wednesday - What do you wish we'd talk about?

Thursday - What kind of bug would you like to be?

Friday - What is a secret you'd like to share with me?

Saturday - What is your favorite t-shirt?

Sunday - What do you think about at night before you fall asleep?

And question #8? It's for you. Which of these questions would you like to answer? Add your thoughts on the back.
